

Stars Rain Down at the Freshi Festival

Sheyna Gee, Tony Gonzales and others join in at Freshi Fun

The Freshi Films Festival is coming to Raleigh Studios on Saturday July 21, 2007 starting at 9:00am. The Festival will host a number of workshops, demonstrations, autograph sessions and screenings for a day of unforgettable family fun. Not to be missed among these performers are the incomparable Sheyna Gee and Tony Gonzales.

Sheyna Gee is perhaps most well known as the spokes model for Daisy Rock Girls Guitars. Despite her celebrity, Sheyna is committed to working with youth at events such as the Freshi Festival. She is also the winner of the prestigious National Foundation for the Advancement of the Arts Award, and she is the first ever rock artist to win this award. She was awarded this honor by Placido Domingo. She is also the founder of the youth organization P.L.A.Y., Peace-Love-and-Youth, that is dedicated to promoting peace and awareness to international issues such as Darfur. She has performed all over Los Angeles and at numerous charity events. Freshi is thrilled to have Sheyna perform at the Festival awards show. She is an excellent role model for young artists.

Tony Gonzales is a voice-over wonderkin who has graciously given time to Freshi at both our Freshi Film camp and the Freshi Festival. His voice-over workshops are informative, interactive, and fun. Tony is a freelance voice-over director and casting associate with ties to all of the major voiceover agencies in Hollywood. Tony spent years working at Disney, credited with work on shows like "American Dragon: Jake Long," "Dave the Barbarian," and "The Buzz on Maggie." He has now created The Young Actors Voiceover Workshop, where his mission statement is "to provide young actors with working technical knowledge of voiceover sound studio recording, spec and script breakdown, the casting process, callback auditioning, techniques in finding vocal variety, character building, and relaxation."

The Freshi Film Festival will be a day full of hands-on views into the world of filmmaking. In addition to the talented individuals mentioned above, "Dreamgirls" Mariah Wilson, Matthew Underwood from Zoey 101, The Academy of Theatrical Combat, Make-Up Designery and many others will be on hand to give the attendees the benefit of experience. Kids of all ages will be entertained by the films and the fun. The Freshi Film Festival will conclude with an awards ceremony at 4:30pm.
